

Call for submissions to the 10th Greenberg Award

The 10th Joseph Greenberg Award organized by the Association for Linguistic Typology recognizes and honors the best piece of typological research embodied in a doctoral dissertation or equivalent for the two-year period, 2019-2020. These are eligible if they were accepted by a university between 1 January 2019 and 31 December 2020 (i.e. passed or defended or accepted, and not just submitted). The award will consist of payment of travel, per diem expenses and registration fee to attend the ALT XIV Conference, to be held in Austin, Texas, USA in December, 2022, and the opportunity to present a synopsis or element of the prize-winning work as a plenary lecture at that meeting.

The Joseph Greenberg Award was named to remember Joseph Greenberg's (1915-2001) fundamental contributions to typology and the interest he showed in encouraging young researchers. Between 1998 and 2006, it was known as the "ALT Junior Award".

To be eligible, those submitting their dissertation must be members of the Association for Linguistic Typology (ALT) at the time of submission, or registered by the time of the conference.

Submission instructions

Please send your manuscript by email in pdf format, with all non-standard fonts in Unicode, embedded in the pdf file. The email should be addressed to the Chair of the Jury, Eva van Lier E.H.vanLier@uva.nl and also to the ALT Conference Secretary Ljuba Veselinova to create a backup copy of your submission.

Addresses to use

Eva van Lier E.H.vanLier@uva.nl

Ljuba Veselinova ljuba@ling.su.se

Deadline 30 September, 2021

If there are any technical issues, the candidate is asked to discuss the problem with the Chair. A jury, consisting of about ten members suitable for evaluating the work submitted, will be appointed by the Chair.

Past Award Winners are presented here:
<https://linguistic-typology.org/greenberg-award/>

Chair of the 2021 Joseph Greenberg Award

Eva van Lier
University of Amsterdam
E.H.vanLier@uva.nl